Topic: Mt Adams Early warning system	Daina	7:05
Guest Speakers: Rachel Haymon will introduce Jon Major, USGS Cascade Volcano Observatory Director. He will provide an update on the status of the Mt Adams early warning system for Lahar events and other seismic activities.
Rachel and John
Rachel - Lahar hazard for Trout Lake, One about 6k years ago all the way down to Husum which created Trout Lake. 260 years ago one got to the town of TL. Early warning system will detect events as they start which will give time to warn residents to evacuate.
John Major- Power point about USGS and what they do, volcano basics,
 Who would they notify in our community and how does the word get out to the public?
Could take tens of minutes for a lahar to reach us after detection <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Response Plan, equipment will hopefully be operational by 2024 - Continued engagement to work out protocols - Rachel - Gifford Pinchot National Forest personnel sounded optimistic about permits happening in a timely manner. Possible to include web cams?.They also need to initiate conversation with Klickitat County about emergency notification protocols. - Someone is retiring at USGS and the replacement will be putting energy into the volcano working groups. New person maybe on board by spring. - Pat - Communication? Pierce County Emergency Management Center has a computer dedicated to this emergency notification system: they are notified immediately if there is an issue, they then contact USGS for confirmation before tripping the siren system.

There are folks on call always.

- Daina asked John to see if he can get approval for the presentation so we can post to our website.
